

One year with Simba - a dear report from the adoptive family

It's almost exactly a year now since Simba joined our family. It was an exciting trip to Berlin for us. Then, at the airport, seeing Simba for the first time and then taking this little bundle of dog with us to Bremen.

This year we have experienced a lot with Simba.

The first days still quite shy at our home. Simba slept the first 14 days in Jonnas bed. Then the trust built up and limits were tested.

"House trained" he was very quickly. Eating, sleeping, going for walks. Everything became more familiar for us and Simba from day to day.

Dog encounters while walking, the first hours alone at home.

The dog school began. To this day it is not clear who learned more. Animal or human.

We all would not like to miss Simba.

Thank you very much for your great support and best regards to Greece.

Reminder: Simba one year ago:

