

Highest forest fire level on Aegina

The fire brigade of Aegina visited the shelter, which is located in a forest with the highest forest fire level, and gave us advice on how to protect the shelter a little more in the event of a fire.

The bushes outside the shelter have grown very close to the fences over the years and we were strongly advised to prune them.

After receiving the written permission, it started. A second emergency door has also been installed in case it is no longer possible to leave through the main entrance.

In this case, too, the renovation of the solar system was of the utmost importance, otherwise we would not have any extinguishing water available. But more about that later.

We thank the local fire department for their expertise and our tireless donors!

Your Team of Animal Protection

