

Educational work in schools

Lesson on animal welfare

Our animal shelter employee Elena teamed up with an elementary school teacher to design a lesson to teach students about animal welfare work. During the lesson, numerous questions about animal welfare and the work done at the animal shelter were discussed. The children showed great interest and actively participated in the discussions.

Children's commitment

At the end of the lesson, the children had the opportunity to express their love for animals in a creative way. They created pictures showing how much they care about animals. This activity highlighted the positive impact of the educational work and the commitment of the young participants.

Outlook

This initiative is an important step toward the future, because children are our future. Teaching animal welfare values at a young age lays the foundation for responsible and compassionate coexistence.
